UBCC Announces an Anti-Fraud Forensic Feature Has Been Added to Their Payroll Software

in 7-figure accounting software packages*

April 28, 2009 – TAOS, NM - Universal Business Computing Company (www.ubcc.com), the leading provider of high volume, high productivity payroll and accounting software, announced that a significant forensic enhancement feature tracking the history of changes made to employee maintenance has been added to their payroll software.

UBCC's new anti-fraud forensics feature tracks the history of changes made to employee specific information. This includes payroll tax withholdings and the detailed demographic history of who was logged into the system, the historical prior value or rate of what was changed, and the date and time any changes were made.

"The payroll check preparation industry is transitioning to more efficient and profitable Web-centric practices. One of the major, until now, unmet needs is to have full forensics capability to figure out "who dunnit".

"The key to profitability and time multiplication for the accountants is to have their clients perform most of the work online. Technology like UBCC's payroll software allows the accountant to have full control of the process through a robust online access permissions capability," said Ken Garen, CPA, Co-Founder and President of UBCC.

This new forensics tool protects the accounting professional in the event that a client makes an ill-advised change to an employee's payroll tax withholdings," continued Garen. "Furthermore, if an employee of the client or payroll processor were to alter name and address information and print a totally bogus series of checks, their digital fingerprints will be there because all file maintenance and check printing is being logged."

This feature, formerly only available in 7-figure accounting software packages, has been added as an option to UBCC's industry leading payroll software. With packages starting at $1500, UBCC is the most affordable and highly productive technology for payroll and accounting professionals.
